New York, Sept. 23.—The gridiron season among the Eastern colleges will be inaugurated tomorrow with games between the University of Pennsylvania and Ursinus College, at Philadelphia; Cornell University and Hobart College, at Ithaca; Carleton College and St. Lawrence College, at Burlington; Syracuse University and St. Bonaventure College, at Binghamton; Lafayette College and Bloomsburg State Normal School, at Easton; Western Maryland College and Dickinson College, at Carlisle; Holy Cross College and Norwich University, at Worcester; Rhode Island State College and Massachusetts Agricultural College, at Amherst; Georgetown University and Eastern College, at Georgetown; Williams College and Amherst College, at Amherst; and Williams College and Amherst College, at Amherst.

The most important game scheduled for tomorrow in the middle West is that between the University of Minnesota and Lawrence College, at Minneapolis. At Lexington the Kentucky State University eleven will line up against the team from Ohio University. More activity will be witnessed on the college gridirons in Ohio than in any other State in that section. Ohio State University and Oberlin University will clash at Columbus. Western Reserve University will meet Buchtel College at Cleveland, and Ohio Wesleyan University and Findlay College will play at Delaware.

The season among the Southern colleges will be opened with several skirmishes, but the most of the Southern institutions will not begin their schedules until the middle of October. The University of Virginia is slated for a game with William and Mary College at Charlottesville. Clemson College will meet Gordon Institute on the home gridiron and Davidson College and the North Carolina Medical College are to play at Charlotte. The big and little colleges in all sections of the country are looking forward to a successful season, though it is generally admitted that at the present time the situation is one of considerable uncertainty. Not until the new rules have been given a thorough trial will their stability and effectiveness be determined. Many of the experts do not hesitate to express misgivings of the endurance of the new rules.

CHAMP CLARK SEES DISSOLUTION OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

Assures Illinois Democratic Convention That End of Interline War is Patent to Dullest Mind.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 23.—"The interline war of republicans has enveloped the whole land and to even the dullest mind evidence of republican dissolution must be apparent," said Congressman Champ Clark to the Illinois democrats in state convention here today. He enumerated the victories of democrats in recent primaries and elections and predicted that the next house would be democratic.

100 PENOLOGISTS SWOOP ON CHICAGO

That They Have Come To Right Place Can Be Safely Guaranteed In Advance.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The hundred or more noted penologists who are touring the country preliminary to attending the coming meeting of the "International Prison Congress" in Washington arrived in Chicago today and will spend the next three days inspecting the local prison and the work of the juvenile court. The Chicago Association of Commerce has arranged several features of entertainment for the visitors, who represent many sections of America and Europe.

Glenn H. Curtiss will give exhibition flights and Clifford B. Harmon may be seen in action as well. Mr. Harmon has the question of entering the race under consideration. If he competes it will be as an amateur, and should he be successful the $25,000 cash prize will be converted into a trophy. A Wright machine will be nominated, but its aviator has not been chosen.

The two Englishmen have had interesting careers as air pilots. Hadley holds the British speed record for a mile, which he made in 47.25 seconds, the rate of 75 miles an hour. This machine is a Blériot monoplane.

Harmer began the study of aeronautics at the Royal Naval Academy in Greenwich, first experimenting with kites. He next took up ballooning and then the aeroplane. As an aviator he has made flights with J. Armstrong Drexel and the late C. S. Robb. Harmer will bring a specially constructed Blériot monoplane of 50 horse power and a substitute machine. That he is a man of daring as well as of skill may be judged from the fact that he rowed across the English channel when he was a youngster.

Shriver, who is a pupil of Captain Baldwin, is building a new Dietz machine, the type used by Hamilton. Shriver's will be of a higher gear than the one in which Hamilton flew from New York to Philadelphia and return.

Baldwin's pupil also constructed the plane with which Curtiss won the international cup at Rheims.

McCurdy made one of the first flights in the history of American aviation. He was the first to fly in Canada, where his records for distance and duration of time still hold good.

Willard was the first to fly in this country after the Wrights and Curtiss had demonstrated that flight was possible and was Curtiss' first pupil. He is a mechanical engineer.

Clay is the youngest of the Curtiss school. He took his machine to Japan and at the request of the mikado made exhibition flights. Returning to this country, he was prominent in the aviation meet at Los Angeles and but recently made a record at Sheepshead Bay for the longest time in the air.

There will be a few alterations at the Hawthorne track to meet the suggestions of Curtiss and Harmer, both of whom have flown there. About three furrows of the inner fence will be removed and the timers' stand will be taken out of the way. With the fence taken down from the last turn through the stretch and to the first turn the aviators can start from the track in front of the grandstand.

PERUVIAN BIRD-- MAN OVER ALPS IN AN AIRSHIP

DARING GEORGE CHAVEZ CROSS-ED FROM SWITZERLAND TO ITALY TODAY

BY SIMPLON PASS ROUTE

Wilmann, a North American Aviator Also Ascended From Chavez' Starting Point at Brieg This Afternoon In Attempt to Reach Milan.

Milan, Italy, Sept. 23.—George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator, flew from Brieg, Switzerland, over the historic Simplon Pass—a twelve-mile roadway built by Napoleon through the Lepontine Alps at an elevation of 6,522 feet—today, arriving at Domodossola, a town of five thousand inhabitants in the province of Piedmont, northwestern Italy, at 2:19 this afternoon.

Wilmann, an American, ascended from the same starting point at 1:19 this afternoon for an attempted flight over the Alps to Milan.

Brieg is an upper Rhone valley town in the southern canton of Valais, Switzerland.

Wilmann Attempt Failed. Later advices—Wilmann descended after four minutes from his attempted flight from Brieg, Switzerland.

Chavez Monoplane Wrecked. In alighting at Domodossola, Chavez fell beneath the machine. He was injured and the monoplane destroyed.

More Parings in History. Chavez' monoplane was at a height of 4,000 feet when dashed to the earth. His escape alive was a miracle, his flight is considered the most sensational and daring in the history of aviation.

Henry L. Stimson, Possible gubernatorial Nominee in New York Should Re-appear at Control Convention.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Already the advance guard of the politicians who will next week make history in the New York state convention has arrived. The fight between Vice President Sherman and ex-President Roosevelt for control of the convention promises to be the most bitterly contested political war of recent times.

Colonel Roosevelt has emphatically declared he would not allow his name to be presented to the convention as a nominee for governor and this brings up the question of the man whom he would like to support in case he should gain control of the convention. While it is not at all certain it is generally supposed that Henry L. Stimson, special assistant attorney general, who is in charge of the prosecution of the sugar case, would be Mr. Roosevelt's choice for the honor.

PAYNE DEFENDS TARIFF-- HAS NOT RAISED PRICES; REAL CUT IN SCHEDULES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARTY PLEDGES FULLY FILLED.

"The law as it was signed by the President has resulted in a general revision downward, and no amount of special pleading, no misstatement of facts, and no suppression of material facts, will ever make it appear otherwise."

"The law has turned a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of more than $22,000,000 in its first year's duties on wines, liquors and like luxuries. We have no apologies to make for it. These are the articles on which the revenues of the government should be raised as far as possible."

Lyons, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Representative Stephen L. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, and author of the tariff law bearing his name, made a warm defense of that measure before the congressional convention which re-nominated him here today. He said in part:

"I have always been ready to give an account of my stewardship to my constituents. There has been so much of unjust criticism, so many mistaken statements made during the past year and a half, that it seems more fitting than ever to speak somewhat in detail of what has been accomplished. "The platform promised a revision of the tariff that should provide a duty equal to the difference in the cost of labor here and abroad with a reasonable profit to the manufacturer. It promised this as to each article, whether it resulted in raising or lowering the tariff on that article. Of course, intelligent men generally familiar with the tariff believed that such a revision would be downward on most articles."

"The matter of preparation of a tariff bill is a most perplexing one. Under the definition of what the bill should contain in a platform as plain as that adopted at Chicago in 1908, the task is not easy. With a different wage scale in every country and with differences in wages in every part of every country, honest men, seeking the difference in labor cost here and abroad, will not agree in all their conclusions. To reconcile these differences, among twelve men selected for the task, was a part of the labor we had before us and in the last analysis these differences had to be settled by a majority vote. The result of our deliberation was most satisfactory to me in general results, although there were other items, like those of the woolen schedule, which I was anxious to revise. It was a source of great disappointment to me, after two exhaustive and extended hearings, that I was not able to present any program that a majority of the committee would adopt for a revision of this schedule. The reason was not that the committee was unduly influenced by those interested, but that they could not agree upon the labor cost of producing wool and woolen goods in this country and abroad with a reasonable profit to the producer. Of course, this left the woolen schedule where it was in the Hingley act, with one or two smaller reductions in duties."

"Some of the amendments proposed by the senate were good amendments and improved the bill, and when it got into conference, so far as I was able, I endeavored to have such amendments agreed to, and nearly all of them were."

"It is an easy thing to say that the present tariff law has increased the cost of living, but it is impossible to prove it. It is almost impossible to find a single item on which the tariff was increased on which the price has shown a similar increase. On the other hand on nearly every item where we reduced the tariff, or where we left it the same, as under the old law, they have maintained the old price or sometimes increased it. We reduced the tariff on lumber from $2 to $1.25 and lumber brings the same old price. We increased the duty on shingles from 30 to 50 cents, and the price of shingles has been lower ever since the act became a law. I could enumerate these items by the hour, showing that the price has no relation whatever to the changes in the tariff act."

"The increase in price of articles is world-wide. No other country during the past three or four years has gone through a general tariff revision and yet every country shows the same increase on the necessities of life."

An Insect in the Ear.

If in riding through the country roads a winged insect flies into the ear, do not try to dislodge by poking, for that will send it further in, and the buzzing against the drum of the ear become almost unbearable. Hold the head over to one side and fill the ear with water, which usually drowns the insect and floats it out. If a house is nearby where you can get sweet oil, that is better yet.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAPTISTS

CHURCH DAY CELEBRATION HELD LAST EVENING.

REPORTS OF YEAR'S WORK

Presented By Officers of Church and Societies and Two Interesting Addresses Were Delivered.

Between three and four hundred people, members of the church and congregation, and friends, attended the annual banquet and business meeting of the Baptist congregation, held last evening in the church parlors. At seven o'clock a delicious dinner was served by the ladies of the church, the program of talks following.

Rev. Joseph C. Hazen, pastor of the church, presided as toastmaster. The program was begun with an orchestra selection. The reports of the church officers were taken up first. J. T. Fitchett, clerk, presenting a report of the church records, showing a membership at the present time of 537. Removals from the enrollment, by death, 6; by letter, 28; and by a correction of the list, striking out names of those who have gone elsewhere, or passed away, 102; a total of 136. The additions were by letter, 12; by baptism, 20; and by ex-pedience, 2; so that in point of membership the church is as strong as it has ever been. Names of those who have passed away during the year were mentioned by Mr. Fitchett and a prayer for these was called for by the pastor, Rev. Hazen.

The report of W. E. Clifton, treasurer, showed the finances to be in a good condition. The receipts for the past year have been $1,537 and although expenditures have been close to that amount, all obligations have been met, and there is a balance on hand of over seventy dollars.

A. P. Hall presented the report of the trustees telling of improvements made on the church property during the year, and commending the work of the treasurer and his assistant, Mrs. Clifton.

AGED VOTERS MUST QUALIFY ONCE MORE

Men With First Papers Who Have Voted for Forty Years Must Secure Second Papers or Forfeit Franchise.

Knowing that after Dec. 1, 1912, first citizenship papers only will not be sufficient to allow them to vote, foreign born residents of Rock county are constantly increasing numbers are seeking the office of the clerk of the circuit court to petition for second papers. Among them are men who have voted for the past forty-two years who now find that they must secure full-fledged citizens of the republic if they wish to vote after Dec. 1, 1912. The most notable case that has as yet come to light is that of Hans Hovelson of the Town of New Ark. Mr. Hovelson is seventy-four years old and has voted at every election in this county for the past forty-two years. He must, however, secure second papers if he wishes to exercise his franchise after next year.

WAS POOR OLD "13" COWARDLY DESERTER

Did the Street Railway Company's Mascot Attempt to Escape Its Life of Hardship?

The Janesville Street Railway's lucky, but somewhat frayed mascot, car No. 13, distinguished itself again this afternoon. Through some whim or mischance, perhaps thinking that the new rails were where they should be on North Academy street, and where, as a matter of fact, they are not, the frisky old wreck skipped lightly from the thin strips of rail and planted itself directly across the alleged track. It took considerable coaxing, some pulling and a lot of profanity on the part of the wreckers to place the city's darling in its normal state of uncertain equilibrium and start it off on its crooked path.

THAT PARADA IS ONE BIG ARTISTIC AMATEUR SUCCESS

Performers Sing and Dance and Drill and Pose Like Professionals—Stage Pictures Beautiful.

Amateurs danced, drilled, acted, and sang with real professional abandon and grace at the opening performance of the "Parada" at the Myers theatre last evening and a large and enthusiastic audience demanded the return of the artists after every sketch and burst of applause of roses and masts across the footlights. Prof. William Wyman of the ludicrous cake-walking "Monday" (W. B. Tallman and not Peter Myers, soloist) drew a stultic of smiles and Theodore Knudson stooped to gather a cluster of dried daisies, but these offerings were only contributions to the fun of the moment. If they were intended to rattle the recipients, they failed in their errand. There wasn't a single "brenk" in that mirth-provoking specialty or any of the others, for that matter. The presentation was letter-perfect and reflected high credit on Captain Charles W. Eddy and his assistants who, working with a high order of amateur talent to be sure, adapted it to nearly 250 roles in a period of scarcely two days.

Judged by the series of beautiful stage pictures, the wealth of pleasing costumes, the scenic accessories, the variety of features, the dancing, the careful blending with the whole of sufficient legitimate comedy relief to prevent the artistic and merely pretty from becoming monotonous, the performance has not been equaled by any previous amateur efforts on the local stage. As is usually the case with productions of this kind, the vocal ensembles lack volume. A few more young men might help some along this line. But they are very scarce in the community.

The vocal and histrionic talent displayed in the solo work is exceptional. Miss Josephine Trent delights all hearers and onlookers with her "Man in the Silvery Moon" and "Vanity Fair." So also Miss Gladys Heddes offering tribute to "The Moon, the Sun, and the Little Olderman." Miss Mary Benton in her topical song, "Jane from Maine." Miss Agnes Griebel as the Gypsy queen, Miss Hazel Fisher who led the Daisy Chain, Miss Gertrude Maude Brown who was soloist for the Parada Girls and the sixteen blue zonkeys who went through intricate evolutions in a fashion that called forth storms of applause. Little Miss Isabelle Fletcher must not be overlooked. As "La Palla Minuet" in the gypsy camp scene she won every heart. Real Grand Army veterans took part in that scene and made it one of the most effective in the entertainment. The Newbury soloists—Jerome Ringer and Tracy Allen—and their group of tough-looking and unwholesome "Arabs" also deserve special mention. Master Ringer, in another sketch, also received the salutations of a coterie of little Japs with a profound satisfaction that is intensely amusing.

The Little Daisies and black and yellow Humble-bees are cute. The Floral Arch with its hooped wilderness of chrysanthemums is an impressive tableau. The Imperials and the Parada Girls and "Grand beauties" of Vanity Fair are immense.

The performance is partially for the benefit of a fund for a new hospital. Atty. M. O. Mann says so in a speech before the curtain "between the acts." It will be repeated tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

CHILD FELL INTO TANK AND DROWNED

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodstock of Spring Valley Lost Life Yesterday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
North Spring Valley, Sept. 23.—Charlotte, the year and nine months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodstock of this place, fell into a tank of water on her father's farm about noon yesterday and was drowned. The child and little companions were playing out of doors. The mother had to leave them to go into the house for a few minutes to place the dinner on the table, and the other children were called away. Five or ten minutes later, when the children were called, Charlotte was missing and search for her made around the house and yard revealed the terrible tragedy.

Doctors were called and worked over her for three hours, but no sign of returning life rewarded their efforts. It is thought the child climbed onto the gate near the tank and lost her footing.

Present arrangements for the funeral are to hold it Sunday morning at ten o'clock from the home and at eleven o'clock from the Advent church.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George M. Shaw Adams.)

It doesn't matter what you say, if you do wrong from day to day. Your moral lectures may be sound, with gems of SAYING AND DOING thought they may abound, but when you spring them folks will grin, and say: "Old Nick's rebuking sin!" Sometimes I see my neighbor do a thing that jars me through and through; and I swell up with virtue's fire, my heart is filled with noble ire, and to myself I say, "I'll show him how my neighbor now! When he performs some scummy deed, that makes my moral bosom bleed, it is my duty right away, to protect, and plant some precepts in his breast!" And while I'm training for the job, an inner voice begins to thrum, and whisper in my spirit's ear: "You're too blamed virtuous, I fear. It jars you horribly to see your neighbor rob an apple tree, or give the melon graft a boost, or lift a chicken from its roost; but you, whom these deeds make so sore, have done the same thing over and over!" And then I sort of shrive up, and take a large emerald cup and pour tea water on my head, and leave those moral things unsaid. The man who preaches and rebukes about men's little sins and shames, should have a record snowy white; his deeds should make his words seem right.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE GAME OF LIFE.

The pains of life are its pleasures. The bitterness of life is its sweetness. "What?" you say. "You are writing a contradiction. You are stating a paradox."

Well, let me get in deeper yet by stating that life itself, real life, is a paradox.

Let me illustrate. The baseball "fan" sits on the bleachers and watches the game, criticizes or applauds as in his opinion the occasion demands. But do you believe he has half the fun or knows a tithe of the pleasure that comes to the players who strain and strive and lose or win, get out of the game all there is in it?

No!

Because down there in the dust of the diamond path of effort is necessary to the joy of strife, bitterness of hard endurance is part and parcel of the sweetness of satisfaction.

Is it not so?

What, for instance, does your labored chapple who sits on padded seats and views through his golden fieldglasses know of the thrill of life and strife and victory that comes to the sweaty jockey who rides the running horse?

There is your paradox.

We are so made that what we get without effort or suffering or sacrifice is scarcely worth the while. On the other hand, our greatest joy comes with the battle hardest won, our sweetest pleasures are wrung from bitterest pain.

It is the law of compensation. Our world is full of people who try for the box seats or the front row, who sit on the bleachers instead of going into the field, and get no joy of life.

The prizes are for winners. Luxury and a front seat mean that you lose the best part of life.

Always and everywhere have men and women tried to get their pleasures without the pains of winning, the sweetness of satisfaction without the bitterness of conflict, in vain.

Get into the game! Oh, it is a game worth the candle, my friend! There are honors to be built, and riches to be dug, and lawsuits to be won, and farms to be made, and fortunes to be written, and errors to be fought, and lives to be redeemed, and women to be shielded, and children to be saved, and hardships to be suffered, and bitterness to be drunk, and—

Victories to be won!

His Interest.
Mrs. Newlywed—You are not a bit interested in my new dress.
Mr. Newlywed—Indeed, I am! How many hooks has it?

His Best Clothes.
At an inquest at Tottenham last evening on Frank Bloom, aged four years, a Walthamstow boy who was drowned in the River Lea while trying to reach a piece of cork, an elder brother said he told a man who was close by what had occurred and asked him to save the deceased. The man replied that he had his best clothes on and could not do so.—London Telegraph.

"Start Now"

One tooth of your own is worth a bushel basket of false teeth for real service.

Don't let your teeth go to pieces by neglect.

A little attention by the dentist every year will be like "bread cast upon the waters." It will return after many days to your great benefit.

Most people nowadays count on about $5.00 or so a year for their teeth just like they count on needing a pair of shoes each year.

Start this system right now in your financial plan.

You will thank your stars for doing so before you are many years older.

WHO WILL GET THE AUTO.

Snodgrass, N. Y., leading batsman of the National league.

New York, N. Y.—The automobile offered to the man who tops the batting average of both leagues at the end of the season has been an added incentive for work in this department and has created much interest among the players and fans.

Snodgrass, the New York batsman, who has led the percentage column this season, took a slump last week and while he still tops the National league, Lajoie beat him out with a percentage of .371 in the American. Snodgrass finished the week with a percentage of .350, which will give the famous Wagner strenuous work to beat. Lajoie's average to date is .332.

Cobb, who is laid up for repairs, may succeed in raising his average of .364 and beat out Lajoie in the last few days of play.

RIGDON TRAGEDY QUEEN TO GO INTO RETIREMENT
Mrs. Young, victim of Charles D. Rigdon, who afterward killed himself.

Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Amy Young, the "tragedy queen" of Washington, who afterward married a prominent lawyer in New York, from whom she was divorced after three years of unhappy married life. After this she came to Chicago, where she understood, has, in her business career, made a fortune sufficient to meet her needs and those of her family for the rest of her life, and now seeks to be forgotten.

Her decision to give up her business ventures ends a remarkable career. For her unfortunate experience, physicians glancing at the daughter of a diplomat declare.

A BIT DIFFICULT.

Riding in an omnibus on Regent street the other evening, I heard an old lady annoying the other passengers by her remarks. The conductor remonstrated with her, saying: "Ma'am, remember you are in a public vehicle, and I have no such."

A woman in business who has a pleasing manner possesses capital sometimes more valuable than money. There is no royal road for reaching this desirable quality, but goodness of heart, sincerity of character, truth and an honest desire to please are paths that will lead to it.

THE WRECKED BUGGY.

MILLIONAIRE AUTOIST CHARGED WITH MURDER.

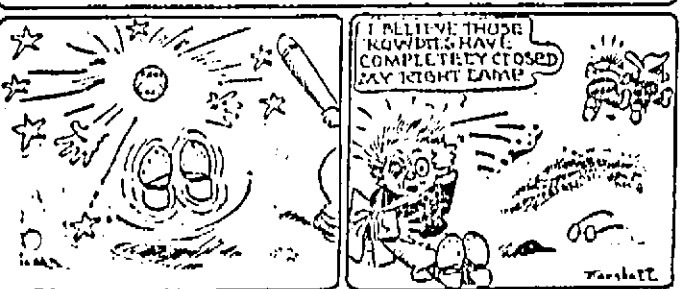

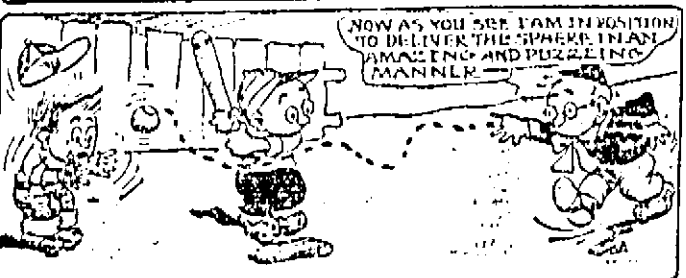

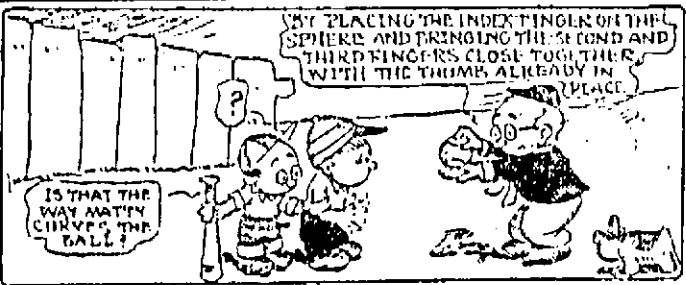

Wreck of buggy in which Miss Grace Hough was riding when run down and killed. Edward T. Rosenheimer.

New York, N. Y.—Edward T. Rosenheimer, the young millionaire of Pelham Manor, whose automobile ran down and killed Miss Grace Hough, 19 years old, on Pelham road, on the night of August 18, was found guilty of causing the girl's death through criminal negligence by a coroner's jury, sitting before Coroner Schwabacker. Coroner Schwabacker held him without bail.

Under the new automobile laws, where a person is killed by an automobile and the person causing the accident fails to stop and lend whatever assistance is possible, the crime is made murder in the first degree. Ros was killed.

CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT OF PANAMA.

Washington, D. C.—Various rumors as to objection by the United States government to Senator Mendoza, acting president, succeeding himself as executive of the government of Panama, were set at rest at the state department by Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson of the state department, who said that he knew of no act of Senator Mendoza's to which the United States could take objection.

It was also said at the state department that Mr. Samuel Lewis, minister of foreign affairs of Panama, is reported as the most likely candidate for the presidency to succeed Dr. Mendoza although Dr. Porras has also been a candidate for the position.

FRANK D. KIMBALL

EVERY day this store has opportunity to "cheaper" its lines of furniture, to "skimp" the qualities, to buy the "just as good" kinds of furniture, but it resolutely refuses to do so. The policy of this store is to buy GOOD furniture at all times, to display the newest and the best in both the popular priced lines and the more expensive. A dollar will not buy more than a dollar's value. The CHEAP furniture made CHEAP to sell CHEAP invariably gives far less service FOR THE MONEY than the GOOD furniture. The "just as good" furniture at a cheaper price is NOT just as good or it would not be sold on that basis. When you buy furniture at this store you buy the best for the money. You buy it for less money in many instances than the same goods are sold for in large cities, because we are satisfied with fair margins only. We do not sell come things at so-called "cheap" prices and some things at exceedingly high prices to make up the deficiency. There is a spirit of fairness and honesty in every sale we make. You will find this store the most satisfactory at all times, the store that shows by far the largest assortment in Janesville.

Worthy of especial attention is the display of beautiful cotton and Kuttie Comfort Rockers just received and displayed in our windows.

We have also just received a large shipment of handsome roll seat rockers to sell at popular prices. They come in new designs, golden oak.

Displayed in our west window are a few striking designs in mahogany Library Furniture, of which our line is very complete. We direct attention to this display believing it to be the very finest furniture in the city.

This is pre-eminently the young men's store. Here you can choose from three of the best and most complete lines in America. We show the same styles at the time they are shown in New York, Chicago and Minneapolis. Every popular fabric, many designs cut especially to suit the pattern of the cloth, in perfect Fall and Winter models, every suit hand tailored. $15 to $25.

Be Sure to See the English Walking Styles

They are something new, featuring the long sack coat, English walking effect front, 3 button, 34-inch flare back, long roll lapels, plain cuffs. Fall Footwear Was Never More Attractive Nor Has Our Showings Ever Been More Extensive are displayed in the handsome short vamp effects so much desired and the newest creations in cravenette tops. There is an unequalled showing here now and you will not want to put off buying when you see the tempting line we offer. Prices range $3, $3.50 and $4.

Other popular lines at $2.50 and $3.

Kneeland and Bostonian Shoe Styles For Men

There are many new features in men's fall shoes, principally the new Tabasco and Mutt lasts in dull leathers and Tan as well as patents. These swing lasts are comfortable, the acme of style and are excellent wearing shoes for fall and winter. The Mutt and the Tabasco lasts are those extreme high knob toes that everyone is talking of. You will find the best of them in our Bostonian and Kneeland lines at $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

AMERICA TO SEE TRIPLANE IN ACTION—A. V. ROE, THE ENGLISH AVIATOR, AND HIS TRIPLANE.

Houston, Mass.—Great interest is shown in the two triplanes of A. V. Roe, which arrived last week, to compete in the aviation meet under the direction of the Harvard Aeronautical Grandstands have been built to accommodate 150,000 people each day, and parking spaces arranged for 10,000 automobiles.

Every kind of air craft is entered, including monoplanes, biplanes, triplanes, dirigibles and balloons.

Unusual interest is manifested in the Roe triplane, as it is the first of its type to fly in America.

The triplane Mr. Roe is bringing is designed as a passenger carrying machine. A machine of this type has never been seen in this country, and persons interested in the science will undoubtedly be anxious to compare its accomplishments with the monoplane.

The world's best timekeeper is said to be the electric clock in the basement of the Berlin observatory, which was installed by Prof. Forster in 1865. Autos in Preaker John's Country.

Even in remote Abyssinia the day of the automobile has arrived, and Germany has seized occasion by the forelock. The Negus has granted to a German company a concession for an automobile line connecting Addis Ababa and Dire-dawa, which are six days' journey by ordinary caravan. The motors will cover the distance in two.—London Globe.

The City of the Future.

A French writer predicts that in the course of 100 years very few persons will live in the cities. Cities will be used only for business purposes.

Too Sharp a Dividing Line.

Elder (discussing the new minister's probation discourse)—In my opinion he was justified in dividing folk into the sheep and the goats. I would just say, Jambo, that I was among the unco guld, and I wadna say that you were among the unco bad. So whar do we come in? He'll no do for us, Jambo. We'll no vote for him.—Punch.

Starited 'Em.

Telephones have become so common nowadays that four women in our neighborhood yesterday were mutually startled when they saw a man running for a doctor.

Home-Made Mucilage Best.

A young woman of long experience in mounting photographs asserts that her own home-made mucilage is better than any of the prepared pastes sold for that purpose. Get an ounce of gum arabic crystals and dissolve in boiling water. It should be of the consistency of thin cream, thin enough to pour easily. When cold it is ready for use.

Where Not to Fight.

The man who fights in the last ditch may be brave, but the world keeps most of its admiration for the men who show their fighting qualities before the last ditch is reached.

Forget the Anchor.

Several members of a boat club at Frankfort-on-the-Main recently resolved to row to St. Lawrence by night. It was just 12 o'clock when they started themselves in their boat, grasped their oars, and made their friends on shore farewell. They pulled vigorously all night, greatly enjoying the healthful exercise, the gloom and quiet, and the weird beauty of the river. Their own chagrin and the wild delight of their friends may be imagined when they found at sunrise they had forgotten to weigh anchor, and were still fast to the float from which they embarked. They are now known to all Frankfort as "the explorers."

CHARLTON MADMAN; ALIENISTS SO REPORT
Declare Grandfather Was Paranoid and That More of Family Were Defective.

New York, Sept. 22.—The conclusion reached by the alienists who examined Porter Charlton, the self-confessed player of his actress wife at Lake Como, Italy, last June, is as follows: "It is our opinion that Porter Charlton is of unsound mind and liable to attacks of impulsive violence and that his moral sense is pathologically defective. He should be taken to a hospital for the insane and there kept indefinitely, for he is likely at any time to be a menace to society."

Judge Blair of the Hudson county court, New Jersey, declined to receive their report on the ground that he had no jurisdiction as a committing court to consider such a plea.

The alienists who examined the prisoner were Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, Dr. Edward D. Fisher, and Dr. W. J. Arlitz.

They declare that Charlton is "of defective mental organization and is a victim of what is known to students of mental diseases as constitutional inferiority." The alienists investigated the personal antecedents of the prisoner and found that his grandfather was a paranoiac, that a first cousin was an epileptic and that a maternal uncle "was a man of stubborn and brutal nature and eccentric, immoral and vagabond tendencies."

So It Had.
On her return to school little Mary's mamma gave her a double shute. It was the first of the kind the little miss had ever seen. "Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, turning it with joy, "it has an each side and an inside!"

BROWN BROS.

WEDDING OCCURRED AT NOON THURSDAY

Miss Ella E. Truckenbrod and George F. Stauffacher Took Marriage Vows.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 22.—A very pretty but unostentatious wedding was that of Miss Ella E. Truckenbrod to Mr. George F. Stauffacher, which was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Truckenbrod, 247 East Commercial street at high noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. A. Schulz, of St. John's Evangelical church. The wedding was strictly a family affair. It was followed by a wedding dinner and the bride and groom left in the afternoon by automobile on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home on a farm in Sylvester township.

The bride and groom both have an extensive acquaintance here, both having made this city their home since childhood. Miss Truckenbrod is a graduate of the female department in Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., and last year taught music in the Green county training school. The groom is a popular member of the Cardinal club.

THEATRE

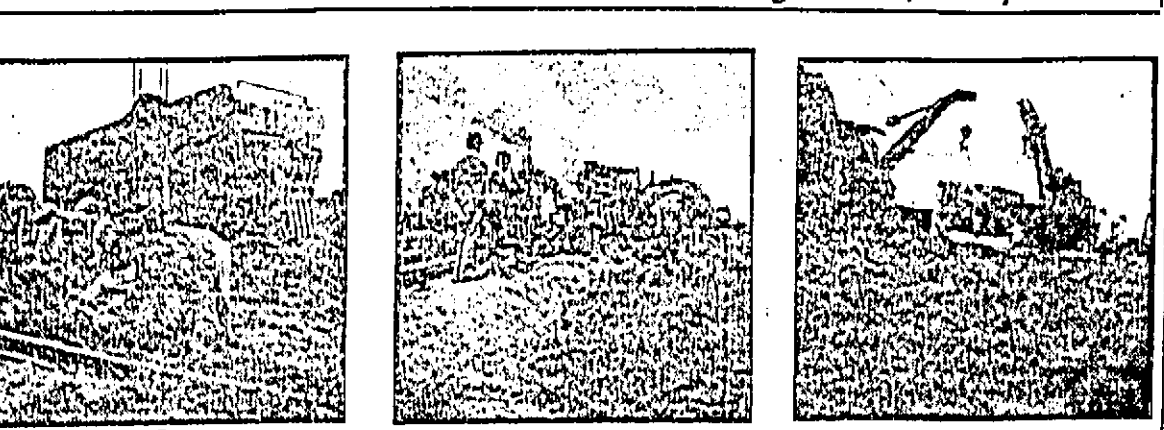

"Under Southern Skies."

One of the pleasantest features of the local theatrical season will be the return of that delightful play, "Under Southern Skies." No other drama of recent years dealing with life in the sunny south has met with such favor as Mrs. Parker's entrancing play. In fact no other play of southern life has ever been written which presents the romance, the gaiety, the lavish hospitality and the humor of life in the south with such natural charm and intense interest as Mrs. Parker has succeeded in putting into "Under Southern Skies." The theatre-going public throughout the entire country has been quick in recognizing the great merit of the play, and it is now in its sixth season of phenomenal success. The beautiful sentiment of the play appeals to every eye and the fun and frolic of the Halloo'een party de-

Three Views Of Wreck At New Yards Where Engine 1480 On Train 584 Was Derailed On The Night Of Sept. 19

TANK WAS STRIPPED FROM THE TRACKS. LOCOMOTIVE ALMOST TURNED WRECKING CRANES LIFTING TIRE TENDER.

Those who are unfamiliar with the practical side of railroading, can hardly realize the difficulty of the task that confronts the wrecking force when a wreck such as occurred last Monday night at the southern extremity of the C. & N. W. Ry. yards here, must be cleared away in order to open the line for traffic. An idea of the hard work necessary may be gathered from the photographs reproduced herewith but the reproductions of the scenes of the wreck can not convey an idea of the speed with which the work is done nor the numerous appliances used.

The wreck last Monday night was a difficult one to handle in more respects than one. In the first place, the engine was a class "Z," the largest freight locomotive used in this section of the country and capable of pulling over twenty-two hundred tons. When it left the track, the tender was torn loose and the tank stripped completely from the trucks. The forward part of the engine, plunged ahead and sinking deep into the soft earth.

With experienced men and the most modern appliances, the work of re-laying the great mass of metal on the rails was accomplished seemingly with ease and certainly with dispatch. The tank trucks were first lifted to the rails, then the tank itself and last of all, the locomotive. Both the Madison and Northern Wisconsin division wreckers were used in the work which was completed within eight hours from the time of their arrival.

A glance at the center photograph will show what a close call Engineer James Wilson, Fireman W. Lewis and Brakeman Ralph Hitebeck had from death as they were in the engine cab with it settled into the position shown by the photograph. One side of the cab was crushed completely.

INVESTIGATE NEW LAND FRAUDS

Inquiry May Exceed Scope and Developments of Cunningham Case.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 22.—An investigation of suspected land frauds in Alaska which may exceed in scope and startling developments the famous Cunningham case is believed to be in progress, guided by federal officers in the northwest.

This investigation, which is said to involve an entirely new group of claims in charges similar to those brought against the Cunningham entries, is believed to have been instituted and actively pushed by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger.

The list of entrants involved is said to include many men of prominence in Spokane and the inland empire, as well as others of national importance.

"You'll Succeed In Janesville."

A very few skeptical persons have asked the question: "Will there be many strangers in Janesville during the three days exhibition of 'Janesville Made' goods?"

When this question was put to Louis G. DeArmand, secretary of the Industrial and Commercial Club, he said: "Well, I'll tell you what I think. When one of Janesville's largest and most progressive retail stores will go to the expense of advertising in twenty-five newspapers throughout southern Wisconsin, telling the people of this territory that they will miss the greatest event in the history of Rock County, if they do not come to Janesville, Sept. 29th, 30th and Oct. 1st, there certainly should be some few outside people in the city next week. I believe firmly in advertising and I know that the advertising this firm is doing will draw people to Janesville during this great 'Made in Janesville' exhibition week."

Nearly seventy manufacturers will make displays in the retail store windows—many of them will have special demonstrations—all are spending time and money to make displays that will be worth coming miles to see.

There is but one feature of this exhibition that Mr. DeArmand says he would like to see carried out, and that is, have all the retail stores decorated with flags and bunting for this occasion. A general scheme of decoration carried out by all the retailers would add tremendously to this display event, for people catch that feeling of a "show" and enter fully into the spirit of such an affair, if flags are flying and the city has a gala appearance.

Temperance Lesson, Gal. v:15-26.

Golden Text—If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit, Gal. v:25.

Verse 15—What should be our attitude toward each other?

Why is it that, even among professing Christians, there is so much evil speaking of those who are absent? What rule should govern our conversation about our fellows?

Why is it not legitimate to discuss an evil report about the absent, even if we have reason to believe it is true? Verse 16:17—What does it imply to "walk in the Spirit?"

Do the natural and legitimate appetites, and desires of the body, necessarily war against the Spirit of God, or is the reference here to the flesh, or sinful mind?

Does God expect every man through the power of the Spirit, to succeed in resisting every sinful temptation, or is that the ideal only?

Verse 18—To what extent may we take the Spirit to direct us, as to what we should, and should not, do?

Verse 19:21—How many, of the sins of this catalogue, are sins of the body, and how many the sins of the soul?

How many of these sins are impossible of commission if we had no physical nature?

If the use of the appetite and passions of the body, and the desires of the heart and mind, are fully under the control of the Spirit, how many of these sins would be possible of commission?

Is drunkenness, for example, a sin of the body, or the soul, or both?

When a drunkard is liberated from the body does he still have a craving for drink?

What is the best cure for drunkenness?

How long would a drunkard crave strong drink, if he could not procure any?

Why is it impossible for those who are controlled by the flesh, to inherit the kingdom of God?

Verse 22:24—How many, or how much, of these fruits of the Spirit, ripens on the day we first commit ourselves to be "led of the Spirit?"

A flower garden needs at least two things, viz., to be free of weeds and for the flowers to grow, the one being sudden and the other gradual; does this fairly represent the needs of a soul, and if so specify the process?

Verse 23—Do those who receive the Spirit have to learn to walk in Him, and if so, how is it done? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 25—If a Christian, out of love, is engaged in good work, is it right or wrong for him to desire to know that his work is appreciated?

If one Christian worker is jealous of another worker, how would you characterize such a person?

"The" Iron Chuk, or mechanical cleaner, is perhaps the most ingenious of the many labor saving devices used in the salmon fisheries. It is an awkward looking, yet very effective contrivance of revolving knives and conveyors which seizes the fish whole and delivers it cleaned, clipped, cut and ready to be washed. With superhuman dexterity it does the work of twenty lightning like butchers. With-out the aid of these Iron Chuks Boyd knew that his fish would spoil before they could be handled. He hastened straightway to George Holt. A half hour's run down the bay and he clambered from his launch to the pile driver, where, amid the confusion and noise, he made known his tidings. The big fellow's calmness amazed him.

"What are you going to do now?" "Butcher by hand," said the fisherman.

"But how? That takes skilled labor—lots of it!" George grinned. "I'm too old a bird to be caught like this. I figured on accidents from the start, and when I hired my Chinamen I included a crew of cutters. Willis Marsh will have to try again."

CHAPTER XIV.

WHILE they were talking a tugboat towing a pile driver came into view. Boyd asked the meaning of its presence in this part of the river.

"I don't know," answered Big George, staring intently. "Yonder looks like another one behind it, with a raft of piles."

"I thought all the company traps were up stream."

"So they are. I can't tell what they're up to."

A half hour later, when the new derrick had come to anchor a short distance below, Emerson's companion began to sweat.

"I might have known it."

"What?"

"Marsh aims to 'cork' us."

"What is that?"

"It's going to build a trap on each side of this one and cut off our fish."

"Good Lord! Can he do that?"

"Sure! Why not? The law gives us 500 yards both ways. As long as he stays outside of that limit he can do anything he wants to."

"Then of what use is our trap? The salmon follow definite courses close to the shore, and if he intercepts them before they reach us—why, then we'll get only what he lets through."

"That's his plan," said Big George sourly. "It's an old game, but it don't always work. You can't tell what salmon will do till they do it. I've studied this point of land for five years, and I know more about it than anybody else except the Creator. If the fish hug the shore, then we're up against it; but I think they strike in about here; that's why I chose this site. We can't tell, though, till the run starts. All we can do now is see that them people keep their distance."

The "lead" of a salmon trap consists of a row of web hung piling that runs out from the shore for many hundred feet, forming a high, stout fence that turns the schools of fish and leads them into cunningly contrived inclosures, or "pounds," at the outer extremity, from which they are shot a quick glance at him as he went on.

"How is it coming along, by the way? I haven't heard you mention it lately."

"Very well, I believe. The men were down the other day and told me it was a big thing."

"I'm delighted. How does it seem to be rich?"

"I hardly know. Rich! That has always been my dream, and yet—"

"The wonderful feature about dreams," he took advantage of her pause to say, "is that they come true."

"Not all of them—not the real, wonderful dreams," she returned.

"Oh, yes! My dream is coming true, and so is yours."

"I have given up hoping for that," she said, without turning.

"But you shouldn't give up. Remember that all the great things ever accomplished were only dreams at first, and the greater the accomplishments the more impossible they seemed to begin with."

Something in the girl's attitude and in her silence made him feel that his words rang hollow and commonplace. While they had talked an unaccustomed excitement had been mounting in his brain, and it held him now in a kind of delicious embarrassment. It was as if both had been suddenly unfolded in a new and mysterious understanding without the need of speech. He did not tell himself that Cherry loved him, but he roused to a fresh perception of her beauty and felt himself privileged in her nearness.

It may have been the unusual ardor of his gaze that warmed her cheeks and brought her eyes back from the world outside. At any rate, she turned, flushing him a startled glance that caused his pulse to leap anew. Rising silently, she went past him to the piano. Never before had she surprised that look in his eyes and at the realization a wave of confusion surged over her. She strove to calm herself through her music, which stilled while it gave expression to her mood, and neither spoke as the evening shadows crept in upon them. But the girl's exaltation was short lived; the thought came that Boyd's feeling was but transitory; he was not the sort to burn lasting incense before more than one shrine. Nevertheless, at this moment he was here, and in the joy of that certainty she let the moments slip.

They heard a child crying somewhere in the rear of the house and Chakawana's voice soothing; then in a moment the Indian girl appeared in the doorway, saying something about going out with Constantine. Cherry acquiesced half consciously, impatient of the intrusion. Boyd finally rose and, going to the door, saw that the sky was deeply overcast, rendering the night as dark as in a far lower latitude.

"I've overstayed my welcome," he ventured and smiled at her answering laugh.

With a trace of solicitude she said: "Wait! I'll get you a raincoat." But he reached out a detaching hand. In the darkness it encountered the bare flesh of her arm.

"Please don't! You'd have to strike a light to find it, and I don't want a light now."

"It has been a pleasant evening," she said lamely.

"I saw you for the first time tonight, Cherry. I think I have begun to know you."

Again she felt her heart leap, reaching out to say goodby, his hand slipped down over her arm like a caress until her palm lay in his.

With trembling, gentle hands she pushed him from her.

When the black bulk of Marsh's cannery loomed ahead of Emerson he left the gravel bench and turned up among the buildings, seeking to retrace his former course. As he turned the corner of the first building he nearly ran against a man who was standing motionless against the wall. The fellow, with a sharp exclamation, vanished into the gloom. Boyd lost no time in gaining the plank runway that led to the dock and, finding an angle in the building, backed into it and waited.

From his momentary glimpse of the man as he made off he knew that he was tall and active—just the sort of person to prove dangerous in an encounter. But if his suspicions were correct there must be others close by, and Boyd wondered why he had heard no signal. After a breathless wait of a moment or two he stole cautiously out, and, selecting the darkest shadows, slipped from one to another till he was caught by the sound of voices issuing from the yawning entrance of the main building on his right. The next moment his tension relaxed; one of the speakers was a woman. Evidently his alarm had been needless, for these people, whoever they were, made no effort to conceal their presence. On the contrary, the woman had raised her tone to a louder pitch, although her words were still undistinguishable.

Greatly relieved, Boyd was about to go, when a sharp cry, like a signal, came in the woman's voice, a cry which turned to a genuine wail of distress. The listener heard a man's voice cursing in answer, and then the sound of a scuffle, followed at length by a choking cry, that brought him bounding into the building. He ran forward, recklessly, but before he had covered half the distance her collision violently with a piece of machinery and went sprawling to the floor. A glance upward revealed the dim outlines of a "topper," and showed him farther down the building, silhouetted briefly against the lesser darkness of the windows, two struggling figures. As he regained his footing, something rushed past him—man or animal he could not tell which, for its feet made no more sound upon the floor than those of a wolf dog. Then, as he bolted forward, he heard a man cry out, and found
